STORMY TIME
IN COURT ROOMThe Case of Albert Lieber, Brewer,
Against Carl P. Walls Sets Off
Fire Works in Preliminary.

OVER THE CHICKEN BUSINESS

Lieber Says Walls Didn't Take Proper
Care of Them and Demands
Some Damages.

Sparks of fire were almost visible during the preliminary hearing of the case of Albert Lieber against Carl P. Walls, which took place yesterday afternoon in the circuit room. The case came here from the Marion county Superior court and is for damages, dissolution of partnership, and a receiver. Albert Lieber, the man who has been before the public more or less in the last two years because of his connection with the breweries, is the plaintiff in the case, which is being bitterly fought. The two men were in the chicken business together and it seems that everybody, meaning Walls and Lieber was not satisfied with the way things were run. Consequently Mr. Lieber is anxious to break up the team. The attorneys got wrothy and Mr. Lieber and Mr. Walls also showed that they were not in any love affair. Ben L. Smith is hearing the case as special judge. The case was continued until one o'clock Monday afternoon. Ebenharter and Mull and Douglas Morris are representing Mr. Lieber and Edward Little and Hall and Campbell are Mr. Walls' attorneys.

The Indianapolis News has another chapter in the case and says of another set-to in court:

Judge Charles Remster of circuit court, has taken under advisement the petition of Carl P. Walls for an order restraining Albert Lieber from causing Walls and his wife to be molested, or interfering with Walls in the latter's raising of chickens at the Lieber farm north of Indianapolis. Walls and Lieber were formerly partners in the 'chicken business' which Walls conducted at the Lieber farm. Lieber recently brought suit for a dissolution of partnership, and Walls, through his attorney, Edward Little, has brought several counter suits.

Walls and Lieber were in court on Thursday. Walls introduced testimony to show that Lieber had sent employees to the farm to annoy Walls and his wife, and that they had prevented him from caring for the chickens properly. Lieber denied the charges, and through his attorney, Frank T. Ebenharter, tried to show that Walls had neglected the chickens.

The fact that Justice of the Peace Hutchinson Wednesday afternoon fined S. A. Macey $1 and costs for assault and battery on Mrs. Walls was introduced in the argument. McVey is a detective employed by Mr. Lieber. George E. Henderson, another detective, who was also charged with assault and battery, was acquitted. The case before Squire Hutchinson. Walls testified that six detective came out to his place one day at the same time and demanded that he deliver the keys of the house to them. He gave them up.

GAS IGNITES FROM LIGHTED LANTERNJames Gregg and Isaac Miller Have Narrow Escape While Looking For Break.

IT BLAZED UP TWENTY FEET

James Gregg and Isaac Miller had a narrow escape from serious burns about four o'clock yesterday morning while looking for the break in the mains of the Rushville Natural Gas company. They were walking the line and got into the escaping gas before they knew it. The gas ignited from the lighted lantern which Mr. Gregg was carrying and blazed up twenty feet. He was on the southeast side of the break and the wind was blowing from the south which took the blaze away from him. Instinctively he turned and the blaze struck his back instead of his face. His cap was pulled down over his ears and in this way he escaped even a singeing. Mr. Miller was farther away, but not enough to put him out of commission. In dodging he stumbled and fell on his face, inflicting a slight flesh wound.

The two men walked the line all night and after the break was located scarcely stopped to take a drink of water even until after the gas was turned on again at 12:30 o'clock. The line is in good condition today.

GOES INTO EFFECT.

The closing agreement between the banks goes into effect on next Monday. On and after that date no one will be admitted before 8 o'clock a. m., or after 4 o'clock p. m.

FOR SOME LITTLE GIRL
WITHOUT A PAPA.

Little Anna May O'Malley, who lives at Willow and Eighth street, sent thirty-three cents to the Republican Santa Claus fund today. And behind the little contribution there is a story. She is much interested in Santa Claus as every five-year-old girl is. But she has taken unusual interest in Christmas this year. She has been watching the fund being raised by the Republican grow day by day and she has been wanting to help out on it. She has been saving her pennies each day and looking forward to the time when they would be added to the fund which is to make the little boys and girls of the city happy.

But with her contribution there came an unusual request. "Please mister," she said handing the little envelope over, "here is some money for the Santa Claus. I've been saving it and I wanted to give it sooner, but mama told me to wait. And mister, I want that to go for some little girl who has no papa. You know I have no papa."

Yes, the money will go for some little girl who has no papa. And a lot more money will go for girls and boys both who have no papa or no mama. The tears came into the little girl's eyes as she made the unusual request. But the spirit of it all—think of it. After that, is it possible that there will be a neglected boy or girl in the city this Christmas?

HAD BEEN BLIND
FOR FIVE YEARSMrs. Eliza Tompkins Died at Her
Home in Milroy Yesterday Evening.

WAS NINETY-FOUR YEARS OLD

Is Survived by Five Children—Funeral Services Will be Held Tomorrow Afternoon.

Following five years of life without being able to see anything that went on about her, Mrs. Eliza Tompkins succumbed at her home in Milroy yesterday evening about five o'clock. Her death was due to senility. She would have been ninety-four years next April and was one of the oldest women in Rush county.

Mrs. Tompkins had been in poor health for a number of years and she did not seem to be in any worse condition shortly before she died. She had been apparently the same as ever up until the time of her death. An operation was performed on her eyes about five years ago to remove a cataract as it was seen that she soon would go blind. The operation was not successful and she had been totally blind since that time.

The deceased was born in Kentucky and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ballinger. She had been a life-long member of the Christian church, joining when she was yet a very young girl. She was the widow of George Washington Tompkins, who has been dead several years.

There are five children who survive her, two daughters, Mrs. Charlotte Innis and Mrs. Perry Innis of Milroy; and three sons, George Tompkins of New Castle, Nathan Tompkins of Milroy, and John W. Tompkins of this city.

The funeral services will be held in the Christian church at Milroy tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by the pastor of the church. Burial will be made in the Milroy cemetery.

"KISS ME"

"Kiss Me" is the song hit which the Daily Republican offers its readers tonight. The song may be found on page 3. The song is the popular hit number of the comic opera "Mistress Nell," sung by Charles H. Bates with Henrietta Crossman. Earl Robertson will sing the song at the Star-Grand theater tonight.

CATTLE THIEVES THERE TOO

And Shelby County Farmers Are Getting Worried Now.

Have cattle thieves begun to carry on their depredations in Shelby county? says the Shelbyville Democrat. This was a question that faced S. P. Harris of Fenus square in the face last night and the more he thought about it the more he became convinced that such was the case. A fine Jersey heifer disappeared very mysteriously from a field on the farm of Mr. Harris yesterday and after making a search over the farm and neighborhood the owner of the animal had to give it up. Mr. Harris bought the animal from John Gordon several weeks ago and hauled her to his farm, where she has been since.

MAMMOTH CROWD
EXPECTED SUNDAYPacked House Will Hear Dr. Stansfield Speak on "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

A SPECIAL MUSICAL PROGRAM

When Dr. Joshua Stansfield begins his talk tomorrow afternoon on "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" it is expected that the First Presbyterian church will be packed. The Men's Meeting will begin at 2:30 and a treat is assured from that time until the close of the meeting. Dr. Stansfield is a big drawing card in other places and probably will be here. And the music tomorrow afternoon for the men's big meeting will be a big thing. In addition to the orchestra music, B. F. Miller will sing a solo.

WILL PROBABLY RECOVER.

Mrs. Jacob Fritch, who was seriously burned when her clothes caught on fire in the Pearsey grocery store yesterday, is slightly improved today. She rested easy during the night and her physician has hopes for her recovery. It is very probable that she will get well if no unforeseen complication arises.

FORTUNE FROM GOVERNMENT?lawyer Says There is Seven and One-Half Million Dollars For the Hilligoss Family.

THIS STORY HEARD BEFORE

Will L. King Told by a New York
Friend it is a Fake—Mrs.
Carr's Letter.

Mrs. America J. Carr has just received a letter from a relative in Chicago telling of what on the face of it looks like a fortune for the Hilligoss family. But—well others have heard of this same fortune, but in the past it has always been found to be a fake. This may not be.

According to the letter received by Mrs. Carr, who is related to the Hilligoss family, lawyer has written the Chicago relative saying that the United States treasurer has seven million dollars which is to be repaid to the Hilligoss family. The reason of this is that Michael Hilligoss while a personal friend of George Washington lent that much money to him to aid in conducting the Revolutionary war. The letter says "for some unknown reason the government has never repaid this amount." This Hilligoss was a relative of the Hilligoss family around here, the spelling of the name having been changed.

The Chicago relative wrote Mrs. Carr and said that if the old family Bible could be found it is probable that the members of the family around here could claim a part of the fortune.

Will L. King, whose wife is a member of the family heard of this same fortune, and wrote to New York to have it investigated by a friend. This friend, also a Hilligoss, and on the staff of the New York Herald, says the fortune is a fake pure and simple, and that the treasury has no money to refund. Mrs. Carr will make some investigation and try to find out more about the case.

Judge Will Sparks heard the argument in the suit on note of the Clarksburg State bank against James Hinehan this morning and took the case under advisement.

TRY TO REPAIR CHANDELIER AND THE FIRE COMPANY H S TO BE CALLEDGas Takes Advantage of Both Its Bad
Habits and Causes Trouble
For W. A. Jones.

JUST FEW SERIOUS MOMENTS

Gas has one bad habit—no two. One is that it will escape if it gets a chance, and the other is that it will ignite when it shouldn't. It did both at the home of W. A. Jones in West Second street about 5:30 yesterday evening. As a result a fire alarm was sent in from Central fire station on a telephone call, and the department made a run and laid a line of hose before the danger was over.

In one of the rooms Mr. Jones has a triple chandelier. One of the three lights was not working well last evening, and seemed to be clogged up. It worried the people who were trying to read by it, so they decided to do their own plumbing and open up the line. They conceived the idea of running a wire through the lead to the bad light. In order to do this they turned out the two good lights and began unscrewing the chandelier from the ceiling. They did not think of turning the gas off in the cellar. Mrs. Emma Gavin was on the ladder doing the work and Mr. Jones was directing the modus operandi.

But the gas didn't understand his language. When the chandelier was loosened at the top the gas rushed out into the room, and ignited. The house was thrown into a turmoil, and the paper began burning. It really was serious for a few moments. Will Pearsey heard the difficulty and rushed to the Jones home. He immediately thought of the cut off in the cellar and went down and shut out the disobedient gas. The damage to the home is slight. Mrs. Gavin and Mrs. Jones both escaped injury. The bad light has been repaired.

SPITZER GIVES HIS SIDE OF IT

Sugar Dock Superintendent On the Witness Stand.

HE DENIES STORY OF MR. PARR

While Admitting That the Scales Used by the Government Weighers Had Been Changed, Spitzer Denied All Knowledge of the Corset Spring Device Which Richard Parr Said He Discovered—Government Prosecutor Stimson Subjected Witness to a Gruelling Cross-Examination.

New York, Dec. 11.—With a long address to the jury by Henry F. Cochrane on behalf of all the defendants, the defense opened its case in the sugar trial. The only witness called during the day was Oliver Spitzer, the former dock superintendent in Williamsburg, and one of the defendants in the present trial. Spitzer was on the stand most of the day, and when court adjourned Mr. Stimson was still cross-examining the witness. It was a severe grueling that Spitzer was forced to endure.

Spitzer admitted that the scales on the docks used by the government weighers had been changed while he was in charge, but that so far as he knew, only three of them had been altered. He denied all knowledge of the "corset spring" device which Richard Parr says he discovered on Nov. 20, 1907. The witness had previously told Mr. Cochrane that there had been frequent strikes on the docks and that he had many bitter enemies who had sent him threatening letters.

Mr. Stimson took up the subject of the differences in the wages paid to the checkers known as the "big six," and the checkers who worked with the city or merchants' weighers. The six men referred to were Doyle, Boyle, Kehoe, Hennessey, Voelker and Halligan, who were always assigned to check the government weighers. The wages of these men were raised at the same time from $18 a week to $20, and Spitzer admitted that he always kept six men who were paid higher wages than the other checkers. Then the prosecutor wanted to know why this was done. The witness replied it was because they had double the work to do and they had to watch the government weighers.

This statement gave the government an opening which Mr. Stimson was not slow in taking advantage of. He wanted to know first why the checking of the city weigher's weights on which the sugar company paid all its bills on imported sugar was left to the checkers, who were apparently the less skilled or less reliable and certainly the more poorly paid. In a period of six years Mr. Stimson declared the sugar company had paid for 35,000,000 pounds of sugar than it would have done if it had taken the government weighers' figures as checked up by the big six and as recorded in the pink books. The government weighers' weights were never taken as a basis on which to pay these bills, he added, and remarked sarcastically that the sugar company would prefer to take the weights recorded in distant Java in the consular invoice than the government weights here.

The direct examination of Spitzer by Mr. Cochrane for the defense brought out only general denials.

ON HIS DIGNITY

Senator LaFollette Will Cease Voluntary Calls at the White House.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Senator LaFollette, leader of the senate radicals, who prefer to be called "Progressives," is aggrieved because Wendell W. Mischler, assistant secretary to the president, told him when he applied at the White House to see the president, to "come around next week."

"When the president gets ready to see me he can send for me," retorted "Badger Bob," in his best chautauqua vein.

Ended His Murderous Career.

Wooster, O., Dec. 11.—Ord E. Boley, maniac slayer of Sheriff Jacob Bell of Holmes county, who swore to kill five other Holmes county men, was shot and captured last night. A bullet fired by W. S. Hoover, marshal-elect of Millersburg, one of the men Boley swore to kill, brought the escaped lunatic down behind a fence a mile north of Shreve. Boley was taken to Shreve with a bullet wound in the abdomen. He was then brought to the hospital here, where he died.

Two Women Slain by Negro.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 11.—Mrs. Eliza Gribble, seventy years old, and Mrs. Carrie Orlando, her daughter, were killed and another woman perhaps fatally injured at their home by an unknown negro, who also attempted an assault. The police have arrested a suspect.

Battleships Came Together.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The battleships Georgia and Nebraska of the Atlantic fleet were in collision during the maneuvers on the southern drill grounds. The effect of the collision was not serious, only a few rivets being sprung.

MYSTERIOUS CRIME

Indianapolis Politician Slain Without Known Motive.

Indianapolis, Dec. 11.—A well-known Democratic politician, Jefferson Harris, is dead at the city hospital from knife wounds inflicted by two unknown men, and the crime completely mystifies the police. Harris was walking along the street when two men attacked and stabbed him in several places and then ran away, making no effort to rob him. He told the police he believed his assailants were Hungarians, but knew of no reason why they should wish to kill him.

Harris was a bartender, sixty-three years old. George Flesor, a foreign laborer, is under arrest and was identified by Harris as the man who cut him.

TELLS THE LORDS WHERE TO DETRAIN

Asquith Outlines British Government Program.

London, Dec. 11.—To his followers in a speech at Albert Hall last night, Prime Minister Asquith gave a lead which aroused the greatest enthusiasm among the enormous audience. He declared that in view of the action of the house of lords the electors might just as well have spared themselves the trouble of going to the polls in 1906. They were not going to make that mistake again. They meant to vindicate and to establish on unshakable grounds the principle of English government. Mr. Asquith said they had suddenly been confronted by three constitutional innovations, first, the claim of the house of lords to control the levying of taxes; secondly, its claim to dissolve the popular chamber, although it could not itself be dissolved, and, lastly, the claim to make and unmake executions of the crown. Every one of these revolutionary pretensions they should withstand for all they were worth. It was their first duty to take effective steps to make a recurrence of the lords' action impossible. They would therefore demand authority of the electors to translate an ancient and unwritten usage into an act of parliament, and place upon the statute book a recognition of the settled doctrine of the constitution that it was beyond the province of the house of lords to meddle in any way or in any degree for any purpose with the finances. Neither he nor any other Liberal minister was going to submit to the rebuffs and humiliations of the last few years. They would not assume to hold office without safeguards for legislative utility and the honor of the party of progress.

This was what the audience were waiting for. They rose in a mass, waving hats, handkerchiefs and programs and roared their applause in deafening rounds. When the outburst of enthusiasm subsided the premier declared his adhesion to a two-chamber system under conditions. They had now, however, all the drawbacks and few of the advantages of the system. Their second chamber was frankly and nakedly partisan. They were going to ask the country's authorities to apply an effective remedy. They did not propose the abolition of the house of lords, but demanded that it should be confined to its proper functions. Its absolute veto must go, and the will of the people, as deliberately expressed by their elected representatives, must, within the life of a single parliament, be made effective. These changes must be accompanied by a shortening of the life of the house of commons to five years, or four years.

Touching on tariff reform, Mr. Asquith quoted Mr. Chamberlain's statement that the budget represented the last effort of free trade finance against a tariff, and declared that if the budget bill were once placed on the statute book the cause of tariff reform would become a forlorn hope.

A resolution expressing confidence in Mr. Asquith and pledging the party to support him to the utmost was carried amid wild acclamation.

Because He Didn't Halt.

Cynthiana, Ky., Dec. 11.—Mistaking him for a Night Rider, Nicholas Muntz shot and killed his neighbor, Elva Coy, near here. Muntz fears Night Riders and when he discovered Coy near his home thought he was one of them. He called on Coy to halt, but the latter refused to do so, and Muntz shot him dead.

Another Banker Goes Over.

Columbus, O., Dec. 11.—Two minutes after a federal grand jury had returned an indictment against him for embezzling $1,600 of the funds of the New First National bank, Donald C. Abbott, prominent as a society leader, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six years at Fort Leavenworth prison.

Congress Marking Time.

Washington, Dec. 11.—After a session of an hour and ten minutes the senate adjourned Friday until Monday, while the house adjourned until Tuesday, after remaining in session for an hour and a half. Both houses are waiting on their committees.

The Counts Piling Up.

Cincinnati, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Jeannette Stewart Ford has been indicted on the charge of blackmail, by the grand jury. This is the second indictment which has fallen upon the woman in the Warner Big Four shortage case.

GOWDY—REMNANT.

(Marion Chronicle.)

Commenting on the statement of John K. Gowdy, former consul general of the United States at Paris, in which he deplored the disappearance of party lines, the Richmond Item says: "Dear Old Jack! Precious remnant of the paleozoic era of politics, that golden age when the floaters were bought up 'in blocks of five,' and when men had to be encouraged under the spoils system he so staunchly supported with the promise of offices to do their duty to their party and their country!" Yes, dear old Jack! Remnant of the days when a Morton man of blood and iron, rather than Foulke, mixture of wind and lingerie, was the best that Wayne county had to offer. Remnant of a day when Jack himself put a musket on his shoulder and went out to fight for principle he believed in well enough to die for if necessary. Imagine Gowdy's Richmond critic fighting with anything but a fountain pen or participating in any demonstration more sanguinary than a milk bath. Gowdy is the remnant of a day when men were men and not sissies in politics as well as out of it down in the burnt district. Indiana is not a better or a greater State because of the decadence of the militant spirit under which the political guerilla would be hanged if captured by either side.

Of Human Interest

OH WHAT A MISTAKE!

Miss Clara Applegate mad a big mistake and she admits it, too. She was never especially fond of agents, at least she never thought she was until the other day. She heard a knock at the door and went out to admit the stranger. Her first glance told her that the person who had knocked at the door was not a stranger, but one of her own dear friends whom she had met several years ago. Miss Applegate was very profuse with her "How are you" and soon had her friendly stranger in the house in front of the blazing fire. And she not only showered her exclamations on the woman, but also embraced her, so glad was she to see her. When the unknown one—for Miss Applegate could not remember her name—was seated before the fire and had come out of the dream under which she had been laboring, she turned to her newly made friend and asked her if she could use any of her toilet articles. Miss Applegate did not buy anything, but felt as if she should buy her whole stock, samples and all. Several young men have ordered an agent's outfit.

Your Auto in Winter.

A number of the local auto-ists are putting up their machines for the winter and through the day the local garage men answer all kinds of queries about how they should be stored. Some people ask if the top and other accessories should be removed, others wish to know if the bed should be taken off and all seem to doubt what to do for the tires.

It is the opinion of experienced auto men that the best way to store a machine is first to put it in a dry place, where there is but little heat. The gasoline and water should of course be removed, and the valves, pipes and engine cleaned. The machine should be jacked up so that the tires do not touch the ground. The tires should not be taken off unless there is a special rim for each tire, so that the owner can hang them up. This is the advice that is being handed out daily by the local garage men.

Hospital Crowded

Joseph L. Cowing was at Richmond yesterday to attend a meeting of the trustees of the Eastern Indiana hospital for the insane. A report which is of much interest to people of Rush county has been submitted to Governor Marshall. The Indianapolis Star says in speaking of the report: J. W. Hanna, J. Detamore, Edward Barrett and Joseph L. Cowing, trustees for the Eastern Indiana Hospital for the Insane, state that new patients could be received only as death or discharges made vacancies. "This means that many urgent deserving cases have been for varying periods locked up in jails or poor-houses, or were at large, and many others have been altogether devoid of hospital treatment. This condition prevails notwithstanding the fact that a new cottage with a capacity of forty beds was opened prior to the opening of the year. This cottage was filled from the waiting list within a month or two after it was opened. We will have recommendations to make to the next Legislature which will be withheld until next year prior to the opening of the session."

AMUSEMENTS

Blanche Walsh will appear at English's opera house, Indianapolis, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 14th and 15th, in her latest play, "The Test," which is said to be the best of many roles she has portrayed. The story is that of a girl of the tenements and gives Miss Walsh an opportunity for a display of the emotional work for which she is so greatly admired. Probably no other actress on the American stage is as well equipped as Miss Walsh for a character presentation, as she has made an exhaustive study of life in the tenements of New York City. "The Test" was originally produced in San Francisco and enthusiastically endorsed. Prominent theatrical managers present at the production agreed that the one woman best suited for the character was Miss Walsh and after negotiations, Miss Walsh took up the play.

The Star Grand showed to large crowds last night and everybody was well pleased with the work of Billy Bowers the Dutch song and dance artist. He will appear again tonight and no one should fail to hear him. There will be two new films shown. The first is a comedy entitled "The Sleeper." It is a most amusing picture of the result of a visit to the hypnotist. The second film is a farce entitled "A Convenient Lamp-post" and pictures a new man with a most remarkable jag, who later acquires a mental collection of all the most beautiful nightmares ever presented by a first-class case of D. Ts. Earl Robertson will sing "Sweetheart is a pretty name when it is Y. O. U."

The Vaudet will have two wood comic films tonight. One is "Peatro, the Mule Driver" and the other is "The Making of a Sailor." The vote in the baby contest today is: 1, Frank H. Green, Jr., 244; 2, Edwin Brecheisen, 31; 3, Ward J. Hubbard, 171; 4, William E. Wallace, 80; 5, Leon Geraghty, 105; 6, Marion Lacy, 114; 7, Harrie Jones, 27.

"A Sticky Proposition," an appropriate subject for today, will be one of the films at the Palace tonight. It is very laughable. "Into the Shadow" is the other. A new song will be sung tonight.

CHAPTER XIV.

An Egg-Nog and a Telegram.

We had discovered Louise at the lodge Tuesday night. It was Wednesday I had my interview with her. Thursday and Friday were uneventful, save as they marked improvement in our patient. Gertrude spent almost all the time with her, and the two had grown to be great friends. But certain things hung over me constantly; the coroner's inquest on the death of Arnold Armstrong, to be held Saturday, and the arrival of Mrs. Armstrong and young Dr. Walker, bringing the body of the dead president of the Traders' bank. We had not told Louise of either death.

Then, too, I was anxious about the children. With their mother's inheritance swept away in the wreck of the bank, and with their love affairs in a disastrous condition, things could scarcely be worse. Added to that, the cook and Liddy had a flare up over the proper way to make beef-tea for Louise, and, of course, the cook left. Mrs. Watson had been glad enough, I think, to turn Louise over to our care, and Thomas went upstairs night and morning to greet his young mistress from the doorway. Poor Thomas! He had the faculty—found still in some old negroes, who cling to the traditions of slavery days—of making his employer's interest his. It was always "we" with Thomas. I miss him sorely; pipe-smoking, obsequious, not over reliable, kindly old man!

"I Am Very Sorry You Have Made This Decision," He Said.

On Thursday Mr. Harton, the Armstrongs' legal adviser, called up from town. He had been advised, he said, that Mrs. Armstrong was coming east with her husband's body and would arrive Monday. He came with some hesitation, at last, to the fact that he had been further instructed to ask me to relinquish my lease on Sunnyside, as it was Mrs. Armstrong's desire to come directly there.

I was aghast. "Here!" I said. "Surely you are mistaken, Mr. Harton. I should think, after—what happened here only a few days ago, she would never wish to come back."

"Nevertheless," he replied, "she is most anxious to come. This is what she says: 'Use every possible means to have Sunnyside vacated. Must go there at once.'"

"Mr. Harton," I said testily, "I am not going to do anything of the kind. I and mine have suffered enough at the hands of this family. I rented the house at an exorbitant figure and I have moved out here for the summer. My city home is dismantled and in the hands of decorators. I have been here one week, during which I have had not a single night of uninterrupted sleep, and I intend to stay until I have recuperated. Moreover, if Mr. Armstrong died insolvent, as I believe was the case, his widow ought to be glad to be rid of so expensive a piece of property."

The lawyer cleared his throat. "I am very sorry you have made this decision," he said. "Miss Innes, Mrs. Fitzhugh tells me Louise Armstrong is with you."

"She is."

"Has she been informed of this—"

double bereavement?"

"Not yet," I said. "She has been very ill; perhaps to-night she can be told."

"It is very sad; very sad," he said. "I have a telegram for her, Miss Innes. Shall I send it out?"

"Better open it and read it to me," I suggested. "If it is important, that will save time."

There was a pause while Mr. Harton opened the telegram. Then he read it slowly, judicially.

"Watch for Nina Carrington. Home Monday. Signed F. L. W."

"Hum!" I said. "Watch for Nina Carrington. Home Monday." Very well, Mr. Harton. I will tell her, but she is not in condition to watch for any one."

"Well, Miss Innes, if you decide to—er—relinquish the lease, let me know," the lawyer said.

"I shall not relinquish it," I replied, and I imagined his irritation from the way he hung up the receiver.

I wrote the telegram down word for word, afraid to trust my memory, and decided to ask Dr. Stewart how soon Louise might be told the truth. The closing of the Traders' bank I considered unnecessary for her to know, but the death of her stepfather and stepbrother must be broken to her soon, or she might hear it in some unexpected and shocking manner.

Dr. Stewart came about four o'clock, bringing his leather satchel into the house with a great deal of care, and opening it at the foot of the stairs to show me a dozen big yellow eggs nesting among the bottles.

"Real eggs," he said proudly. "None of your anemic store eggs, but the real thing—some of them still warm. Feel them! Egg-nog for Miss Louise!"

He was beaming with satisfaction, and before he left, he insisted on going back to the pantry and making an egg-nog with his own hands. Somehow, all the time he was doing it, I had a vision of Dr. Willoughby, my nerve specialist in the city, trying to make an egg-nog. I wondered if he ever prescribed anything so plebeian—and so delicious. And while Dr. Stewart whisked the eggs he talked.

"I said to Mrs. Stewart," he confided, a little red in the face from the exertion, "after I went home the other day, that you would think me an old gossip, for saying what I did about Walker and Miss Louise."

"Nothing of the sort," I protested.

"The fact is," he went on, evidently justifying himself, "I got that piece of information just as we get a lot of things, through the kitchen end of the house. Young Walker's chauffeur—Walker's more fashionable than I am, and he goes around the country in a Stanhope car—well, his chauffeur comes to see our servant girl, and he told her the whole thing. I thought it was probable, because Walker spent a lot of time up here last summer, when the family was here, and besides, Riggs, that's Walker's man, had a very pat little story about the doctor's building a house on this property, just at the foot of the hill. The sugar, please."

The egg-nog was finished. Drop by drop the liquor had cooked the egg, and now, with a final whisk, a last toss in the shaker, it was ready, a symphony in gold and white. The doctor sniffed it.

"Real eggs, real milk, and a touch of real Kentucky whiskey," he said. He insisted on carrying it up himself, but at the foot of the stairs he paused.

"Riggs said the plans were drawn for the house," he said, harking back to the old subject. "Drawn by Huston in town. So I naturally believed him."

When the doctor came down, I was ready with a question.

"Doctor," I asked, "is there any one in the neighborhood named Carrington? Nina Carrington?"

"Carrington?" He wrinkled his forehead. "Carrington? No, I don't remember any such family. There used to be Covingtons down the creek."

"The name was Carrington," I said, and the subject lapsed.

Gertrude and Halsey went for a long walk that afternoon and Louise slept. Time hung heavy on my hands, and I did as I had fallen into a habit of doing lately—I sat down and thought things over. One result of my meditations was that I got up suddenly and went to the telephone. I had taken the most intense dislike to this Dr. Walker, whom I had never seen, and who was being talked of in the countryside as the fiancé of Louise Armstrong.

I knew Sam Huston well. There had been a time, when Sam was a good deal younger than he is now, before he had married Anne Endicott, when I knew him even better. So now I felt no hesitation in calling him over the telephone. But when his office boy had given way to his confidential clerk, and that functionary had condescended to connect his employer's desk telephone, I was somewhat at a loss as to how to begin.

"Why, how are you, Rachel?" Sam said sonorously. "Going to build that house at Rock View?" It was a 20-year-old joke of his.

"Sometimes, perhaps," I said. "Just now I want to ask you a question about something which is none of my business."

"I see you haven't changed an iota in a quarter of a century, Rachel." This was intended to be another jest. "Ask ahead; everything but my domestic affairs is at your service."

"Try to be serious," I said. "And tell me this: Has your firm made any plans for a house recently for a Dr. Walker at Casanova?"

"Yes, we have."

"Where was it to be built? I have a reason for asking."

"It was to be, I believe, on the Armstrong place. Mr. Armstrong himself consulted me, and the inference was—in fact, I am quite certain—the house was to be occupied by Mr. Armstrong's daughter, who was engaged to marry Dr. Walker."

When the architect had inquired for the different members of my family, and had finally rung off, I was certain of one thing. Louise Armstrong was in love with Halsey, and the man she was going to marry was Dr. Walker. Moreover, this decision was not new; marriage had been contemplated for some time. There must certainly be some explanation—but what was it?

That day I repeated to Louise the telegram Mr. Harton had opened. She seemed to understand, but an unhappy face I have never seen. She looked like a criminal whose reprieve is over, and the day of execution approaching.

CHIEF OF THE SIOUX, OLD RED CLOUD, DEAD

His Name Was One of Terror
a Generation Ago.

Pine Ridge Indian Agency, S. D., Dec. 11.—Chief Red Cloud, head chief of the Sioux, is dead here of a complication of diseases. He was eighty-six years old, had been blind for a number of years and was almost deaf. There were living at the time of the old man's death four generations of the Red Cloud family. Red Cloud was not an hereditary chief, but gained his position through sheer ability as a fighter and statesman. For twenty years he carried on a warfare with the whites, and in that time he took many scalps and won many victories over the white soldiers. Thirty-five years ago, however, he signed the peace paper and for the remainder of his life he lived up to the terms of his treaty. Preparations are being made for the funeral. Every Sioux in South Dakota will be present.

BIG DRAINAGE SYSTEM

Thousands of Acres of Illinois Lands to Be Reclaimed.

Mt. Carmel, Ill., Dec. 11.—When the North Fork drainage system, embracing more than forty miles of ditches in Hamilton, Saline and Jefferson counties, in Illinois, is completed, more than 26,000 acres of now unproductive bog land will become as valuable and productive as any soil in Egypt, it is said.

The total area affected by the drainage system is 137,000 acres, most of which acreage has seldom been dry enough to cultivate. The estimated cost of the system of drains is $130,000. W. W. Stokes, surveyor of Jefferson county, has just presented his report estimating that figure as the cost. Several of the largest contractors in the central states are trying to land the contract.

Followed a Bad Example.

San Francisco, Dec. 11.—After he had read in the papers the account of the shooting of Dr. Wood by Gabriel Jacobs, because the doctor broke his home up, and of Jacobs's suicide, D. B. Groff, an Oakland capitalist, shot his wife and killed himself. Groff, who was fifty-five years old and had made a fortune in mining, recently married a woman of twenty-eight.

In Just Five Months WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

LAKES CLAIM MANY VICTIMS

The Season of 1909 Has Been Unusually Disastrous.

THIS WEEK'S BAD RECORD

Many Boats Are Missing in Lake Erie and the Death Total May Be Twice as Large as the Present Estimate—The Season Just Closed Has Claimed More Than Eighty Dead, Together With Twenty-Eight Ships, Valued, Exclusive of Their Cargoes, at $1,400,000.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 11.—This week makes the season of 1909 one of the most disastrous in the history of lake navigation. Counting the missing men of the Clarion, who are now believed to be dead, the toll of the lakes this year has been 82 men drowned or killed in explosions and 28 ships valued at $1,400,000 exclusive of their cargoes.

Many boats are missing in Lake Erie and the death total may be twice as large as the present estimate. The big car ferry Marquette and Bessemer No. 2, carrying a crew of thirty men and probably a number of passengers, is believed to be lost off Long Point, Ont. The steamer was due in Conneaut Tuesday, but cannot be located. While the sand-sucker Reliance was trying to get through Lake St. Clair she crawled up on an ice ledge, tilted so her load shifted and turned turtle suddenly. There was a crew of eleven men on board. Engineer O'Neill of Duluth had a miraculous escape, being in the engine room when the boat went over.

He fought his way to the surface and, nearly frozen, called for assistance. All the crew had jumped overboard, however, and swam to shore.

The Exceptional Equipment of the California Fig Syrup Co. and the scientific attainments of its chemists have rendered possible the production of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, in all of its excellence, by obtaining the pure medicinal principles of plants known to act most beneficially and combining them most skillfully, in the right proportions, with its wholesome and refreshing Syrup of California Figs.

As there is only one genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna and as the genuine is manufactured by an original method known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only, it is always necessary to buy the genuine to get its beneficial effects.

A knowledge of the above facts enables one to decline imitations or to return them if, upon viewing the package, the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. is not found printed on the front thereof and O'Neill followed.

Somewhere on Lake Erie a steel lifeboat containing, it is believed, the dead bodies of thirteen sailors from the steamer Clarion is drifting. The lifeboat had air chambers and was theoretically non-capsizable. Therefore it is believed the men have died of cold and exposure. In the hurried flight from the burning ship there was no time to gather food for the boat. The Clarion was abandoned Wednesday morning.

The steamer Davock has reported that she passed through fifteen miles of wreckage near Long Point, Lake Erie, and that among the bits of flotsam was a metal boat, filled with water and kept afloat by her hermetically sealed compartments. There was no one in the boat, which was awash.

A KENTUCKY WOMAN

Body of Connersville Canal Victim Identified as That of Mrs. Keller.

Connersville, Ind., Dec. 11.—The body of the woman found in the canal a week ago was identified by Maurice Keller and William Dwyer of Cynthia, Ky., as that of Dwyer's sister and Keller's wife. The woman disappeared while shopping in her home city, four weeks ago.

Mrs. Keller's mind had been unbalanced for a year, and she had the delusion that she had disgraced her relatives, although she seemed rational in all other matters, her relatives say. The unfortunate woman was thirty-nine years old, and was the mother of seven children.

It Was a Mistrial.

Anderson, Ind., Dec. 11.—After being out twenty-three hours, a circuit court jury was discharged after failing to reach a verdict in the case of Selby Thomas, aged twenty-three, charged with assaulting Blanche Lillian Manning, aged thirteen. The court continued Thomas under $2,000 bond. His second trial will not take place until the January term of circuit court.

Alleged Whitecappers Acquitted.
Jeffersonville, Ind., Dec. 11.—A jury in the Clark circuit court acquitted Samuel Cooley, Simpson Cooley, Robert Ritter and Cecil Mull on charges of riot and conspiracy against Lafayette Floyd, who lives near Borden. On the night of July 16 Floyd was taken from his home by masked men and whipped because it was alleged he beat his wife.

Carried Out His Threat.

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 11.—Fred Kunzman, a wealthy business man of Hammond, hanged himself. He was fifty-one years old, and had been a soldier in the Franco-Prussian war. Kunzman was mentally deranged and told his wife recently that he was going to take his life.

Jury Couldn't Agree.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 11.—After failing to agree, a jury in the manslaughter case against John Dooley, a Chicago & Alton trainman who shot Willard Jackson of Marion, Ind., who tried to board his train, was discharged.

Acetylene Plant Let Go.

North Salem, Ind., Dec. 11.—E. M. Kurtz, a wealthy farmer living three and a half miles south of this place, was instantly killed by an explosion of his acetylene plant.

A WOMAN'S DREAM

Led to the Discovery That Her Husband Was a Bigamist.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 11.—Ex-Vice Chancellor John T. Bird has recommended that a divorce be granted to Mrs. Evelina V. Smith of this city, who testified that she had proved her husband a bigamist. As the result of a dream, Mrs. Smith went to Mount Holly, where she found her husband living with Miss Kate O'Donnell, to whom he had been married in Philadelphia.

According to Mrs. Smith's testimony the dream was remarkable for its accuracy and detail. She found in the house in which Smith was living a bureau, just as it had been pictured in her vision, and in a box in one of the drawers, also a part of the dream, was a certificate showing the marriage of Miss O'Donnell and Smith.

NEITHER INCLINED TO SEEK BATTLE

Nicaraguan Foes Still Withholding Their Fireworks.

New Orleans, Dec. 11.—The two armies of Nicaragua are facing each other at Rama, where the decisive battle of the revolution is expected, according to passengers on the steamer Imperator, from Managua. General Estrada, the president of the revolutionary government, has gone from Bluefields to Rama and is in command in person of his forces, which are well entrenched. The Zelaya government forces are under the command of General Vasquez. The two armies have been facing each other for two weeks. There have been several skirmishes, but neither seems inclined to seek a pitched battle.

The Estrada army is unable to make an attack because of lack of ammunition. Guns and ammunition were shipped from New York on the steamer Utstein, but the ammunition did not fit the guns. The steamer Stavanguen, however, has reached Bluefields with the proper ammunition and the Estrada forces are expected to take the offensive as soon as this reaches them. General Vasquez has waited for the word from President Zelaya to begin the attack on Rama, but the president is said to have hesitated, being afraid to trust his soldiers.

Chicago's Notorious First Ward Ball Has Been Called Off.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—The cumulative force of protests from clergy, civic organizations, charity workers and citizens again the annual "First Ward Ball," which in other years has been described as a disgraceful orgy, has had its effect here and Alderman John Coughlin announced that there would be no ball and that a concert would be given in its place. No drinking or dancing will be allowed at the concert. Mayor Busse said that he had received letters threatening that his house would be blown up by a bomb if he did not prohibit the ball.

CLASS TEAMS OUT FOR SUPREMACY

Fives Organized in High School and Will Play One Night in Every Week.

VARSITY IS PRACTICING GOOD

CLASS STANDING.
Class	Won	Lost	Pct
Seniors	1	0	1000
Sophomores ..	1	0	1000
Juniors	0	1	000
Freshmen	0	1	000

The first of a series of weekly interclass basketball games was held in the gymnasium of the Graham school building Thursday night. The class teams expect to play every week and a great amount of rivalry between the contesting fives is sure to bring some good games.

In the first game the Seniors defeated the Freshmen 32 to 7, while the Sophomores beat the Juniors in the next contest by the score of 39 to 5. The scores indicate that the games were one-sided, but this is not true as each point made by either five was closely contested. The Sophomores and Seniors and the Freshmen and Juniors will tie up Monday evening and two very interesting games are expected. The first team practiced for a short time last night and a short game beat the seconds 38 to 2. The varsity will probably be organized next week and a captain will be elected.

MILROY TEAM DEFEATED

Morristown Wins Basketball Game—Milroy Player is Hurt.

Morristown high school defeated the Milroy high school basketball team by a score of 23 to 12 at Morristown last night. The game was exciting all the way through, but the Shelby county players had it on the boys from Anderson township. Clyde Ryse, playing a forward for the Milroy team, received a sprained ankle and had to retire from the game. The Milroy line-up was: Martin, center; Ryse and Witters, forwards; Thomas and Toynes, guards. The Milroy team will play Gwynneville at Milroy next Friday night.

CITY LEAGUE TO BE ORGANIZED

Six Teams Which Held Boards at Social Alleys Last Winter to Probably Get Together.

COLD WEATHER HELPS SPORT

Since the weather man has been kind enough to favor the public with some of the real winter kind the bowling sport has grown in public favor and at times the manager of the Social Alleys in First street wishes that he had six alleys instead of three. The old bowlers who have made Rushville famous in the Red Line League are gradually rounding into form and will probably organize a city team after Christmas. There is considerable talk now of the reorganization of the old city league which held the boards last winter for several weeks. The occupations represented by the six teams in the league last year were: the dentists, physicians, postoffice, clerks, newspaper, and merchants. It is thought the organization will be perfected soon and that the old league will be in good working order. Some of the captains of last year's team have been consulted and are much in favor of the plan.
